Scope Global

Scope Global delivers international development and education programs that benefit the Asia-Pacific region, Australia and South Australia.

We support higher education institutions and students to achieve successful research, study and training experiences in Australia and throughout the world through delivering a range of Australian Government scholarship programs. These programs include the Endeavour Leadership Program, New Colombo Plan Scholarships Program, Australia Awards South and West Asia, the Commonwealth Scholarships Program for South Australia and the Defence Cooperation Scholarship Program.

We also partner with Australian universities to deliver short-term outbound mobility programs, study tours and student placements across the Asia-Pacific region.

Scope Global is headquartered in Adelaide and our global team delivers an array of programs and services throughout our region.

Everything we do is driven by our purpose to enable people to positively change their world. www.scopeglobal.com

UniSuper

UniSuper is Australia's dedicated superannuation fund for people working in the higher education and research sector. With more than 400,000 members and around $67 billion in net assets under management, we're one of Australia's largest super funds.

For more than 30 years, UniSuper has worked alongside Australia's universities and research institutes delivering high quality, value-for-money retirement saving products and services. We're proud of the contribution the higher education sector makes in Australia and are thrilled to be the major partner at the 2018 CEDA Higher Education Review.

keynote speaker

Catriona Jackson

Chief Executive, Universities Australia

Catriona Jackson commenced as Chief Executive at Universities Australia on 15 May 2018. A highly experienced advocate, Ms Jackson had previously been Deputy Chief Executive of Universities Australia for two years and is former CEO of Science and Technology Australia.

Ms Jackson has also served as Director of Communication and External Liaison in the Office of the Vice-Chancellor at ANU, and as a senior journalist and Ministerial adviser.

Ms Jackson has deep experience of the policy making process, having led Universities Australia's policy team as Deputy Chief Executive and having acted as Chief Executive on many occasions, including giving evidence to Parliamentary inquiries and briefing key decision-makers.

Ms Jackson is Chair of the Advisory Board for the ARC Centre of Excellence for Nanoscale Biophotonics, a founding member of the peak body for not-for-profit science groups, the Science Sector Group (SSG), and co-founded the National Research Alliance with the Australian Academy of Science.

Professor David Lloyd

Vice Chancellor and President, The University of South Australia

David Lloyd is Vice Chancellor and President of the University of South Australia. A Dublin-born and educated chemist who specialises in computer-aided drug design, Professor Lloyd has re-focused institutional culture to position UniSA as Australia's university of enterprise and to shape its activities to better meet the challenges of the 21st century.

Professor Lloyd was a member of the South Australia Economic Development Board (EDB) from 2014 to 2018. A past Chair of the Australian Technology Network group of technology-focused universities, he now sits on the board of Universities Australia, the peak body representing the university sector where he is the lead vice-chancellor for research & innovation. He was also recently appointed to the Australian Research Council's (ARC) Advisory Council to provide advice to the ARC on key research policy issues, to lend independent strategic guidance and experience that will strengthen the ARC's ability to support research and innovation in Australia.

Professor Peter Rathjen

Vice Chancellor and President, The University of Adelaide

Professor Peter Rathjen commenced as the University of Adelaide's 22nd Vice-Chancellor and President on 8 January 2018. He is an Australian scientist and medical researcher internationally recognised in stem cell science.

Prior to his appointment, Professor Rathjen was Vice-Chancellor of the University of Tasmania, where he was instrumental in creating vibrant new university precincts within the CBDs of Hobart, Launceston and Burnie.

Professor Rathjen is an alumnus of the University of Adelaide, as are all of the members of his immediate family.

While at Adelaide as an undergraduate in the Department of Biochemistry, he was awarded the R A Fisher Prize for Genetics and the Morton Prize for Biochemistry, both in 1983. As a 1985 Rhodes Scholar, he undertook a DPhil at New College, University of Oxford, studying mobile genetic elements in yeast and mammals.

Professor Colin Stirling

Vice Chancellor and President, Flinders University

Professor Stirling's career provides a strong foundation for his ambitions for the University. Born and educated in Scotland he gained a BSc in Biological Sciences at the University of Edinburgh followed by a PhD in genetics from Glasgow University.

Professor Stirling was then awarded a NATO Research Fellowship at the University of California, Berkeley before joining the University of Manchester in the United Kingdom where he was appointed Professor of Genetics in 1998. During his time at Manchester he was awarded a number of prestigious prizes and awards including the Jenner Research Fellowship from the Lister Institute of Preventative Medicine, a Wolfson Research Fellowship from the Royal Society, the Balfour Prize from the Genetics Society and the Fleming Award from the Society for General Microbiology. He was appointed Education Dean in the Faculty of Life Sciences at Manchester in 2001, then Associate Vice-President eLearning in 2007 and Vice-President for Teaching and Learning in 2008.

Throughout his academic career, Professor Stirling has established a record of leadership, innovation and successful change management in Higher Education.

about CEDA

CEDA is a respected independent national organisation with an engaged cross-sector membership. More than 750 of Australia's leading businesses, organisations and academic institutions from around the country are members of CEDA. For more than 50 years, CEDA has delivered informed discourse and rigorous research to influence good public policy for Australia's economic and social development.

Membership

Organisations join CEDA because CEDA delivers exposure to high level thought leadership, timely briefings on issues of economic importance, access to networking and brand reach through sponsorship and hosting opportunities. In addition to high profile public events, CEDA also delivers regular member only events for employees of member organisations and exclusive Trustee only boardroom briefings for senior executives from member organisations. These provide a unique opportunity for peer-to-peer knowledge exchange and for speakers and attendees to talk candidly on issues.

Research and policy

CEDA's only agenda is to pursue good public policy to progress Australia's economic and social development. Since 1960 CEDA has produced more than 3000 publications, research reports and articles highlighting emerging issues and directions in a diverse range of policy areas. Research in 2018 will focus on the economics of inequality; and a major report examining the broader public policy agenda in Australia, and what's required to ensure long term policy objectives can be met and reviewed.
